EPISCOPAL CHURCH REVIVALS .- There is now in progress at Holy Trinity Chapel, Fortythird street, a series of meetings, with services and exhortations. As effective instruments in the work Miss Beard and Miss Logan have been induced to leave their district mission work in England, for a time, to wrestle with sinners in this metropolis. During the even-ings Rev. S. H. Tyng and Rev. W. Humpstone finish the work begun by the sisters in the afternoons. On Monday, at four p. m., there was an audience in the chapel, mostly ladies, to hear the sisters, concerning whom some curiosity had been excited. Promptly at the time announced the two ladies entered the edifice, and, in a straightforward, business way, proceeded to the platform and took their respective positions behind the little, cheerfully ornamented desk. Miss Logan is a rather slight lady, with a primuess of face and an expression which some might deem a little too severe, even for a maider lady of, perhaps, thirty five. She were a black hat, with light blue ribbons and bows, and her dress was like the hat in color, but wholly without variegated trimmings. On rising to lead in prayer her expression became more animated. Her prayer was entirely unimpassioned and was also free from novelty.

The prayer concluded and a hymn sung by the congregation, Miss Beard arose and, opening a well fingered little Bible, began to read and excort. She is taller than Miss Logan, also younger, and though dressed in irou gray, with a hat covered with a black veil and relieved only by a shining brown bow in front, her face and eyes were animated, creating the im pression that she inclined to smile rather than weep. Her voice and expression were pleasing ir m first to last. She took for a text all of the forty fifth chapter of Genesis that is descriptive of the visit of Joseph's brethren to him after they had sold him and he had acquired great power in the land of his adoption. In the demeanor of Joseph toward his brethren, who had sinned against him, she found an illustration of Christ's treatment of those who had sinned against Him, and in a quiet, unimpassioned way, urged the ladies who composed her audience to give themselves to Jesus wholly and to labor in His cause henceforward to the end. These meetings will be continued until Friday next.—New York Herald.

CHINESE BARBER SHOPS, -The Chinese barber shops in San Francisco are more num rous than those of any other calling. On Du pont street, between Sacramento and Clay streets, there are not less than fifty basement apartments devoted to tonsorial operations. At first blush the wonder arises why so many of these establishments are needed; but stand on any street in the quarter, and glance at the head of each passing Chinaman, and the mystery is dispelled. Among them no toilet is considered complete which does not involve the shaving of a greater portion of the head and neck, a thorough cleansing of the eyes, ears and nostrils, and even a trimming and penciling of the eyebrows and lashes.

Razors, probes and lances of peculiar con struction are among the instruments used by these skillful artists. The process of shaving and cleansing is necessarily a long one, and when a Chinaman emerges from one of these shops he may be safely counted as thoroughly clean—above the shoulders. The combing and braiding of eues consume no little time. Every Chinaman of adult years regards an occasional tonsorial experience as a sacred duty. The closely shaven head must be scraped over often to preserve the appearance so much desired, and all this, in a place so populous as the "quarter" in San Francisco, requires the con stant service of a numerous force. All the barber shops of the Chinese have a peculiar sign at the door-way ind cative of the occupa tion. It is a four-legged frame, the legs painted green and the top knobs red. On all the streets in Chinatown these signs are seen every

TERRIBLE SHOOTING AFFAIR -On last Monday, one of the bloodiest tragedies ever recorded in this section was acted in Stokes county, near Martin's Lime-kilo. Mr. Dick Martin and his two sons, Eu l and Tom, in company with a Mr. Ben Smith, were returning from a house raising. Eucl Martin had his hand resting confidingly on Smith's shoulder; not an angry word had been spoken, when Smith secretly drew his pistol and placed it near Martin's temple and deliberately fired. Without a man, Martin fell to the ground and died in a few hours afterwards, only speaking two words. Smith then turned and fired at Tom Martin, who was eight or ten feet off, the the ball passing diagonally through his bowels, inflicting a painful, and it is feared, a fatal w und. As Tom fell he cried to his father to run for life, and as the old man made off, Smith tollowed him for at least a quarter of a mile, and shot at him two or three times, but fortunately geither shot took effect. Smith deliberately returned to where his first victim was lying, and remarked that, if his first shot had not killed him, he had three more balls to dispose of. When asked by his brother what he had against the Martins, he replied that he had killed two of them, and it he could kill four more men he would be satisfied. An old family feud, which was thought to have been amicably settled, is the only reason that can be assigned for this wretched affair. Smith has not yet been arrested. At least fifty men are scouring the woods in every direction for him. We fear he will be lynched if he is captured. It is always best to let the law take its course. Reidsville (N. C) News

Among the "Centennial curiosities" en route for Philadelphia are the following contributions from Queen Victoria: Twenty six of her own erchings, two table napkins spun by herself; a banner screen embroidered by the Princess Beatrice; a table cloth embroidered by the ers by the Marchioness of Lorne, Another enrious thing, and one of real historical interest, will be Gen. Washington's family Bible, in three volundes, quarto, which he, in dying, bequeathed to Lord Fairfax, who in ture, left to the Herbert family. It has Washington's multiple goods, autograph, and copious uotes by Bishop White, the editor and giver.
